Connecting people to services for independence

Thrive for Life, LLC, in partnership with Access for Independence Honolulu and the University of Southern California, is looking for volunteers to participate in a research study to help connect rural older adults to services that increase safety and support in the home for independence.

We are seeking adults age 65 and over who have used telehealth in the last six months to participate in a 1-hour phone interview about their experiences with technology. Your input will be used to design a way for rural older adults and health providers to connect over long distances.

Contact us today to find out how you can share your experiences and help older adults access important services for independence!
